FIRST NIGHT

The evening of our arrival, August 29, 1958, the class of "61", with their big sisters and the intermediate students gathered in Undermount Classroom.

Everyone seemed excited and tense, not knowing what to expect. Miss Patterson, President of the Student's Council welcomed us and gave us a general outline of residence life.

Then, Miss Patterson introduced us one by one as we went up to receive our name cards. After everyone had received their card, donuts and cokes were served and the students mingled around and became acquainted after which we dispersed to our rooms where we settled down to a good night's sleep so that we would be wide awake for the start of our new career.

THE HALLOWEEN PARTY

On October 30, 1958, the annual Halloween Party was given for the entire Student body by the Pre-clinical class. Everyone attended in costume. Probably the most original was the appearance of several of the senior nurses as a Harem.

Two short skits were put on by the Pre-clinicals which were thoroughly enjoyed by

A grand march around the auditorium saw two prizes awarded, one for the funniest and one for the most original. These were won by Ruth Ann Gee, and a group of seniors who portrayed an Operating Room skit.

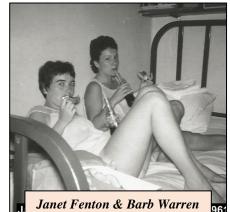

A lunch was served by the refreshment committee, under the direction of Carolyn Fletcher following the entertainment.

The evening was completed by a sing-song and pranksters headed for bed, tired but happy to dream of ghost and goblins.

THE DISASTER PROGRAM

Student nurses participated in a disaster programme. Class of 1961 acted as patients and could be seen walking with cratches, & name tags. Less fortunate4 patients were D.O.A. and were carried on stretchers in the Church of the Ascension.

Last fall, the students of St. Joseph's Hospital participated in a disaster programme designed to discover how efficient the hospital staff would be in the event of a major disaster.

The Pre-clinical Class of "61" acted as the "patients" and could be seen walking with crutches and a small tag around their neck stating that they had lacerations to both legs, while others had only been badly bruised or had a broken arm. The less fortunate "patients" were D.O.A. (dead on arrival) and were carried on stretchers into the Church of the Ascension where they had time for a short nap while lying in the temporary morgue. The difficulty in this case was that it was terribly hard to keep from laughing or falling off the stretchers which were carried by the orderlies. The hospital housekeeping staff did the all important job of running errands to different parts of the main hospital or over to Information at Undermount which was efficiently manned by the office staff.

In the Church of the Ascension the injured were examined by doctors, assisted by the Senior and Intermediate students. The more severely injured were admitted directly to the hospital which had been theoretically cleared of all movable patients. The whole practice enjoyed much publicity with credit for this being given to the reporters present.

The effort was thought to be a tremendous success as it was completed in approximately two hours and it proved that in the time of an emergency the entire St. Joseph's Hospital staff is a very efficient team.

Would Clear Hospital Within Four Hours

Sister Mary Grace, superintendent of the Hospital, said the plan would be used in the event of an atomic attack, but we are chiefly concerned with the possibility of a civilian catastrophe. It could come from a hurricane, a serious train wreck or an industrial explosion.

Church of the Ascension on Charlton Ave is the key to the disaster plan. The entire building is to be used as a receiving and immediate treatment centre.

First phase calls for evacuation An elaborate call system set up for key persons outside the hospital are responsible to call in staff. Nurses have been told their shift will last as long as the emergency does.

A medical team at the receiving door will split the patient stream directing first aid cases and those requiring serious treatment and those that are dead.

Phase two is being worked out in conjunction with the civil defense authorities.

They will provide 250 stretchers to be disposed of in corridors and in the many tunnels under the hospital. A disaster plan which would empty St. Joseph's Hospital o regular patients and provide beds within four hours for 258 disaster victims has been dopted by the Sisters of St

"CAPPING" December 19, 1958

On December 19, 1958 our class of "61" was officially accepted into St. Joseph's School of Nursing.

The many months of study and anticipation were left behind, the path of our future as nurses lay ahead. The cap which we received is the key to a locked door of the future which is slowly opening up to us with every passing day.

Many joys and sorrows will pass us by on this mysterious long journey, but may we never forget the honour which was bestowed on us on that memorable day.

Lois Ayotte

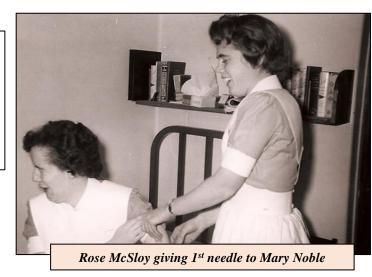

In January of 1961, one of our classmates, Lois Ayotte, left our midst to enter the convent of St. Joseph's.

We are very fortunate, and share the joy and happiness of her family to realize that she has done as Christ asked her to do - to give up the world and follow him.

She entered St. Joseph's Hospital in August of 1958 to begin her training as a nurse. After discovering that Our Lord wanted her to be a Sister, and that He wanted her then, she entered the convent. The class '61 is proud and honoured to say that one of our friends is serving God and she will be remembered often in our prayers.

CHRISTMAS CAROLING

Have you ever looked for something to do that gives you a happy feeling, one that cannot be fully explained? Well, that feeling was certainly experienced by many on December 14, 1958. That day was planned for us to go to the House of Providence to sing Christmas Carols.

We received a hearty welcome by all, while parading through the corridors bringing happiness and joy to the jolly and friendly old people. Nearing the end of our parade, we were directed to the parlor, where not only were we entertained with goodies but had an added attraction. A very cheerful, old Irish chap sat and sang one song after another along with our accompanyment (whenever possible).

Not only did we sing out in Dundas, but we toured the hospital on Christmas bringing Christmas cheers to all the sick patients.

That feeling of which I previously wrote was indeed something that could not be expressed in words, but would have to be experienced. So next year when we are thinking about giving and receiving, let's not have "this joy" experienced by a few, but by all.

Christmas boxes to needy families in the city Everyone contributed. Later they attended Midnight Mass

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

At our November student's council meeting, it was agreed upon that we should send out Christmas boxes to needy families in the city. Everyone contributed generously and on Christmas Eve hampers containing canned goods, fowl and Christmas cake were picked up and distributed by the social workers from the Catholic Welfare.

Later as many of us knelt at midnight mass, we said a silent prayer of thanks to our new born Saviour, for all the wonderful gifts and blessings He has bestowed upon us. It made us happy to know that in a small way we had made Christmas a little more bright for some of His less fortunate.

Christmas Concert 1959 was based around "The littlest Angel" Between scenes, were piano solos by Marilyn Cooke'61, Joanne Peacock'61 and Janet Walker, A clarinet duet by Laurie Etchells'61 and Joyce Johnson'61. Solos by Gerry Duc and Sandra Chase'61 and several other selections by the choir directed by Helen Reeker and accompanied by Julie Capriotti The closing scene was highlighted by the presentation of the Nativity scene and Cathy Farrell'61 singing "O Holy Night"

Merry Christmas! It may seem to be a little late in the season to be wishing everyone a Merry Christmas, but making last Christmas a merry one was the main thought in everyone's mind as the Christmas Concert was being prepared and presented.

This year's Concert was based around "The Littlest Angel." White clouds managed to settle over the stage for the evening and colorful angels were seen mingling around the Pearly Gates. As we followed the Littlest Angel, played by Jackie Button, on his adventures, we managed to see many different sights. At one point we caught the Littlest Angel tap dancing down one of the streets in Heaven. Then he led us to choir practice where we heard the celestial version of "White Christmas". As we followed the Littlest Angel's gaze down to earth we peeked into "Madame Camillias Beauty Salon", where all sorts of comical situations were taking place. Between scenes we were favored with piano solos by Marilyn Cooke, Joanne Peacock and Janet Walker, a clarinet duet by Laurie Etchells and Joyce Johnson, solos by Gerry Duc and Sandra Chase and several other selections by the choir directed by Helen Reeker and accompanied by Julie Capriotti. The closing scene was highlighted by the presentation of the Nativity scene in tableau and Cathy Farrell singing "O Holy Night."

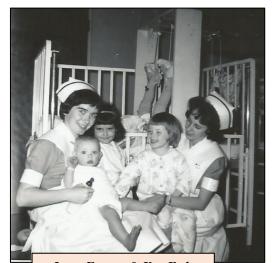

As I said, as I opened this article, our main thought in preparing and presenting this Concert was to help make Christmas merry. Our idea of a truly Merry Christmas was expressed very aptly by Sue Reed, our "Master of Ceremonies", in the opening thought, "Put Christ in your Christmas and you'll have Christmas in your heart."

We only hope that the Concert meant as much to you who watched, as it did to us.

ORIENTATION TO NURSING

BRANTFORD

Sister Mary Austin '43

NIAGARA FALLS

WELLAND

HAMILTON

February 15 to February 22, 1959, St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing played host to young women from Hamilton and district looking to nursing as their career.

Sister Mary Austin and student groups also visited schools in the vicinity to bring to the high school students as vivid a picture as possible of a nurses life in the hospital environment.

Student nurses are found everywhere, underneath, on top of, running around, jumping over, or slithering past patients' beds. Doctors yell at them, head nurses criticize them, interns tolerate them, residents overlook them, mothers worry about them, and patients love them.

A student nurse is courage under a cap, a smile in snowy white, strength in starched skirts, energy that is endless, the best of young womanhood, a modern Florence Nightingale. Just when she is gaining poise and prestige, she drops a glass, breaks a syringe or steps on a doctor's foot.

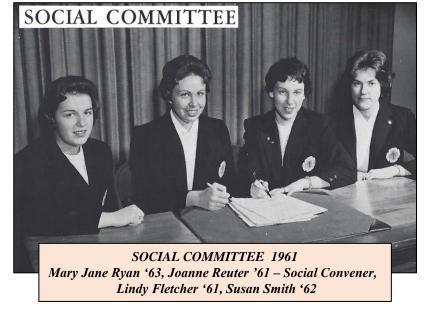

A student nurse is a composite. She eats like a team of hungry interns, and works like the whole nursing staff put together. She has the speed of a gazelle, the strength of an ox, the quickness of a cat, the endurance of a flagpole sitter, and the abilities of Florence Nightingale, Linda Richards and Clara Barton all rolled into one white uniform.

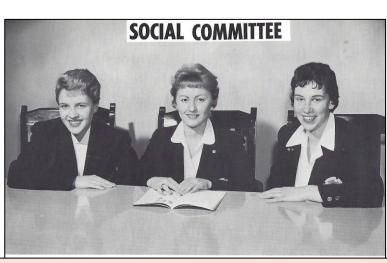

To a head nurse, she has the stability of mush, the fleetness of a snail, the mentality of a mule and is held together by starch, adhesive tape, and strained nerves. To an alumna, she will never work as hard, carry more trays, make more beds, or scrub on more cases than her predecessors.

A student nurse likes days off, boys her own age, the O. H. affiliations, certain doctors, pretty clothes, her roommate, mom and dad. She's not much on working 3-11 days off with class, alarm clocks, getting up for roll call, or eating corn beef every Tuesday.

No one else looks forward so much to a day off or so little of working 3-11. No one else gets so much pleasure from straightening a wrinkled sheet or wetting a pair of parched lips. No one else can cram into one little head the course of a disease, the bones comprising the pelvis, what to do when a patient is in shock, how to insert a Cantor tube (usually at 3 a.m.), plus the ten top tunes of the hit parade.

A student nurse is a wonderful creature; you can criticize her but you can't discourage her. You can hurt her feelings, but you can't make her quit. Might as well admit it, whether you are a head nurse, doctor, alumna, or patient, she is your personal representative of the hospital, your living symbol of faith and sympathetic care.

BLACK BAND DAY

One of the most important days in our three years has come. Although it was planned as a surprise we all suspected this day we would receive that coveted band of black velvet which would distinguish us as seniors.

After Sister Virginia had placed a black band on each cap and the thank you's had been said, a bright and smiling class of seniors entered the cafeteria for supper amidst the admiring glances and congratulations of others.

I am sure we will always be reminded of this day by our many photographs and by the black band of the cap on the dresser.

INTERMEDIATE SENIOR RETREA

The student nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital had the privilege of Father R. C. Johnston S. J. guiding them, this year in their annual retreat.

Through the three days of silence, prayer and meditation Father directed our thoughts to the past, present and future.

Since our Catechism we have known our purpose in life but the main question remains hom I to attain my goal? - what is expected of me in this world that will being me closer and better prepared to eternity? What have I done and what will I do?

The retreatants day began with morning prayers, meditation, mass and Holy Communion It continued with five scheduled conferences with free time between for spirifual reading, meditation and of course coffee time. There was time for private conferences if anyone so wished.

Each evening the exercises closed with Benedication and recitation of the Rosary with the retarrants retining weary but satisfied. What greater close to a retreat than the receiving of the Papal Blessing from our retreat master.

Did we make a good retreat? Ask us next year when we can see the influence it has had on our life.

Sunday December 18, 1960 The whole school assembled in the Auditorium for the 1st evening capping ceremony. We recited the Jeanne Mance Pledge.

The junior class of 1963 received their caps from Sister Superior – Sister St. Paul and Sister Virginia and lit it with a taper.

The intermediate class of 1962 received their year pins.

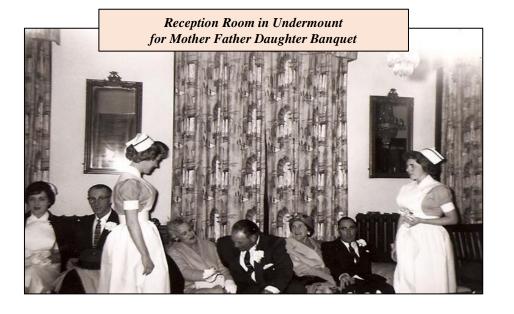

The senior class of 1961 received their school rings presented by Sister Virginia.

A social time with a sing – song and congratulations completed the evening

The evening couldn't have been more perfect. We had just returned from the Chapel following the most beautiful capping ceremony and there was an air of excitement and anticipation throughout the room. Rumor had it that we, the seniors, would be given our graduation rings.

Then to a thrilled group of students Sister announced the presentation of school rings. As each of us stepped forward and received them from Sister Virginia we whispered our thank you and knew that this marked another step up the ladder to graduation.

ALUMNAE BANQUET

On May the third, the Annual Alumnae Banquet was held in the Crystal Ballroom of the Royal Connaught Hotel. On arriving at six-thirty p.m., each member of the graduating class received a red carnation with gold ribbon signifying the school colours. After the Graduate Nurses were seated we took our designated places and before the dinner a toast was proposed to our Alma Mater, St. Joseph's School of Nursing. Mrs. Newman, the president, then greeted us and told us of our responsibilities as graduates of St. Joseph's School of Nursing. Marilyn Cooke gave the response for the Class of '61.

One of the features of the evening was the appointment of the officers of the alumnae for 1961. Roll call was then taken of the different classes from 1915 to 1960 --then 1961. Prizes donated by Roy Meeham and Bob Gallaway of the "Tuck Shop" were then drawn for. The lucky winner of the steam iron was Nijole Latauskas and Sandra Chase, Anna Marie Garvey and Mary Jane Noble each won a pen.

Our guest speaker for the evening, Dr. Williams, Medical Director of St. Joseph's Hospital gave an interesting outline of the new addition to the hospital.

RETREAT May 13 & 14, 1961

DAY OF RECOLLECTION

May thirteenth and fourteenth were set aside as "Days of Recollection" for the Graduating Class of 1961. We were very fortunate in having Father G. Pocock S. M. M. as our Retreat Master.

The day began with Holy Mass after which a series of conferences were given. The last conference was followed by Benediction which closed the Retreat.

This proved to be a most inspiring day for those who took part.

GRADUATION DAY

Sounds of carefree laughter and shouts of excited voices echoed through the long, once quiet corridors. This was the eve before the graduation of the Class of 1961. In spite of the mounting tension and excitement each nurse had to force herself to bed in an attempt to get a few hours of rest. Sleep, however, did not come as quickly as it had on previous nights. Instead the few remaining hours before dawn were spent recalling pleasant memories of the past three years and trying to anticipate what the morrow would bring.

At five-thirty the following morning one of the nurses, noted for sleeping in, exclaimed: "It's graduation day!" This exclamation reminded everyone that this actually was the day of their graduation and one not likely to be forgotten. Roll call was taken at six-fifteen and we then proceeded to the beautifully decorated chapel. Here a High Mass was offered by Reverend Father Beaudry for the graduating class. Following the mass breakfast was served in the cafeteria at tables decorated with bouquets of flowers. On our place-mats each of us found an engraved red leather photo album given to us by the Sisters of St. Joseph. Having finished breakfast we visited Sister Mary Virginia and Sister Mary Austin, our Director of Nursing and Director of Nursing Education, respectively, who, we are very sorry to say, were unable to attend graduation due to illness. The latter part of the morning was spent in gaiety and laughter as our excitement increased with every passing moment.

At one o'clock that afternoon we filed into buses and were then driven to Cathedral Girls' High School amidst a chorus of songs and shouts. After being ushered into classrooms we put on our bibs and aprons and each was given a cascade of roses.

With the commencement of the tune, "Land of Hope and Glory", the procession began slowly down the centre aisle of the auditorium. Our heart beat faster and tears of joy trickled down our cheeks as we ascended the platform and took our places. We waited for an eternity, it seemed, until it was time to receive our diplomas and pins.

On unsteady feet we descended the stairs, shook the warm, outstretched hand of Bishop Ryan and then with trembling fingers grasped our diplomas. In a daze we crossed in front of the platform received our pins and again took our places on stage. Through a mist of tears we caught short glimpses of our proud families and their smilling faces. Several minutes later the programme ended as we, our families, and our friends joined together in the singing of "God Save the Queen".

The reception which followed, terminated our day of graduation -- a cherished and unforgotten day in our hearts and in our lives.

..... MOTHER

The stretch of the years is now long past Since I was your baby girl The years when you mended a broken doll Or smoothed down a straying curl.

I've come since then to a woman's place To my graduation day. I'm a nurse - and the dream of my childhood hours Stands achieved - and my heart is gay.

You are my model - you my ideal Yours - ever the love that was true. God couldn't be with me all of the time So He gave me a mother like you.

..... DAD

To-day I'm a nurse - it seems only a dream I can hardly believe that it's true. My training is done - I have come to the end And my first grateful thought is of you.

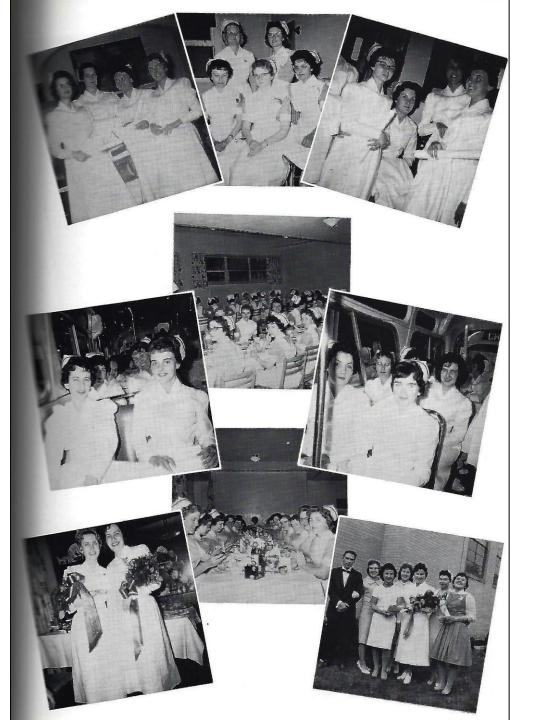

I know that you're proud, Dad, to-day as you see Your nurse - just so late your wee tot But my pride in you, Dad, rings as strong in my heart God love you - and bless you a lot.

This is only a verse - just a "thank you" in rhyme But its accents are happy and glad. For it tells of the love that in gratitude comes From a graduate nurse to her Dad.

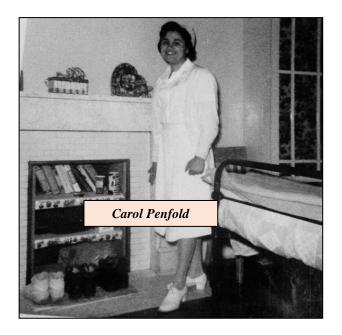

Elsie Csiczak & Julie Capriotti

A TRIBUTE

At the commencement of our senior year, we had the disappointment of having our very dear "Sister Mary Austin," our Director of Nursing Education, become ill, and she had to leave her duties. Since that time Sister has been confined to a hospital bed.

More recently "Sister Mary Virginia," our Director of Nursing, has also been confined to hospital.

We have sincerely missed their presence at all our important functions especially our graduation festivities, but most important their presence in the school where we knew we could always go for help and advice. From the depths of our hearts we all truly hope that they will be able to resume their duties in the near future.

Class of '61.

VALEDICTORY - 1961.

To-day we graduates stand at the doorway to a new life. Others have laboured before us in a nursing life of love, dedication and service. Now we have been called to share their work, to give our own care to the sick. We must give more than our professional talents for nursing demands the generous gift of our entire being.

As we stand at the doorway of graduation, we gratefully remember many persons, all those who made this day possible, by guiding us with understanding, skill and love.

God alone can adequately reward our fathers and mothers for their unfailing sacrifices and constant encouragement to continue generously onward in our years of training. We offer grateful prayers for all the Sisters of St. Joseph for their example and devotion has been an inspiration. We sincerely thank the many dedicated physicians, instructors, nurses and other staff members who contributed so richly to our lives in the past three years.

Ours is indeed a most rewarding profession. The sense of accomplishment, the proud feeling of proprietorship, when one of our patients turns the corner that means life and health again. Unless we are humble, unless we so merge ourselves in the patient's service, that he knows his welfare is the first consideration in our mind; that it is in fact, a matter of spiritual concern to us, our patient will be the first to recognize the lack of that devine spark within us and we shall have failed our vocation.

We offer our sincere thanks to all who have helped us to become able to help others.

We beg of you a prayer. We ask you to pray that in God's strength and mercy, we may never fail those patients who wait for us and claim the full measure of our care, our love and our lives.

Privileges such as we enjoy, entail responsibilities. In a world that knows little but self seeking we must remember that we are pledged to serve others. The words of Cardinal Newman may be applied to the vocation of a nurse "God has created me to do Him some definite service; I am a link in a chain, a bond of connection between persons. We shall do good, we shall do His work, if we but fulfill His commandment, and serve Him in our calling."

Eleanor Violino '61 Valedictorian

As a student nurse approaches her day of graduation she views the field of professional nursing from a new perspective. She has almost forgotten the cloud of glamour and idealism which once surrounded her cherished dream of the future and reduced the true picture of nursing to one of sentimentality. She is now a mechanical formality. A new dimension of nursing is taking form within her. It is a composite of all the things she is, enriched by her background of technical skills but sparked by the soul of nursing - a rich loving person.

One of the great objectives of a Catholic School of Nursing is to salvage the Christian ideals of nursing from the confused environment of a cold scientific approach in the care of the sick. If you would realize these ideals in your lives, then there are three important aspects of your living to be emphasized.

You must see yourself as a religious person, as a social person, and as a professional person. Only when you begin to visualize yourself in these three roles and then integrate them within your total personality will you find your place in life. Your professional personality as a nurse is the distinctive feature of your vocation, it sets you apart from the other categories of living. In your religious and social personality you have much in common with others but as a nurse you are different. Your particular calling is to care for the sick. To do this adequately it needs sufficient knowledge and skill. Your competence require diligent, daily, persevering study because a mistake on your part can mean the difference between life and death for a patient. It is necessary that you pursue your studies with an overwhelming ambition to get the maximum return from your education. Your professional personality must also include a sense of duty. Very often this calls for sacrifice of one's own pleasure but it is essential if you will be true to your professional role.

The transition from student in nursing to the role of professional practitioner is an exciting period filled with making decisions and setting new personal and professional goals. The new graduate has some realization of her responsibility in relation to society in her profession. She knows that to carry out this responsibility, she must continue to improve her nursing practice, promote the welfare of her profession, and take an active interest in the health and welfare of her community.

More than in any other position held by women there is a crying need for the realization of the meaning of Christian womanhood in nursing. The need is not only individual, but general; not just for to-day, but for all time; not just where you are now, but in the whole of our country and in the world.

In conclusion, dear nurses, always be loyal to your patients, your institution and yourselves - a true nurse.

In an address given to participants in the National Congress of Professional Nurses, by His Late Holiness, Pius XII, in September, 1953, he stated "To recognize Jesus in the invalid and to act yourself like Jesus with him - here is the ideal of every Christian nurse. In this way it will come about that the image of Christ will be reproduced twice by every bed of pain; in the sick person, the Christ of Calvary expiating and resigned and in the one assisting, the compassionate Christ, Divine Doctor of souls and of bodies."

God bless you always.

Friday May 26, 1961 GRADUATION DANCE sponsored by the St Joseph's Nurses Alumnae.

It was held in the Starlight Room at Prudhommes Garden Centre The theme was "MAYTIME" The room was decorated with roses & lilacs. WE danced to the mnusic of Ron Metcalfe.

"MAY TIME"

Friday, May the twenty-sixth, at last, the night of THE BIG DANCE!! For three years we waited for our Graduation Ball, and it was all well worth waiting for All were excited as we arrived at Prudhommes Garden Centre. The Starlight Room was beautifully decorated with roses and lilacs and the girls wore gowns of every colour imaginable.

The doctors, graduate nurses and their escorts appeared to enjoy themselves as we all danced to the music of Ron Metcalfe.

Can we ever find the words to thank St. Joseph's Alumnae for this never-to-be-forgotten evening?
